NEW VARIETY, Tulegold Early Navel oranges that will be officially introduced to citrus growers and shippers of the San Joaquin valley at a meeting tonight, 8 o'clock, at The Paul Bunyan restaurant in Porterville. Developed by Art Mabs, of Strathmore, and his son, Don Mabs, of Fresno, the new Navel is said to develop from 10 days to three weeks ahead of old-line Washington and Frost Nucellar Navels. Ten years of experimental work lies back of the new early Navel, on which a patent is now pending.

All-Star Kiwanis Kapers Tonight

PORTERVILLE — An all-star cast of professional entertainers will be on stage tonight at the Porterville Memorial auditorium as the Porterville Kiwanis club presents its 1966 Kiwanis Kapers. Curtain time is 8 p.m.; tickets will be available at the door.

Bob Karl will entertain with his life-size puppets and also MC the show; the man who seems to have eternal youth — Nick Lucas, the Singing Troubadour, and his guitar, will be a headliner, and the Lyons family, four youngsters and their dad, will appear in an excellent tumbling and acrobatic routine.

Boy Foy and Fay, who live up to their billing as the world's greatest jugglers and unicyclists, are real show stoppers; the Harris Nelson family will present their unusual and entertaining musical act, and the amazing Dr. Giovanni will mystify and amuse with his famous pickpocket and sleight of hand routine.

Backing the show will be Lex Golden and his Statler Hilton orchestra.

Porterville Kiwanians annually present their Kapers as a fund-raising event for the club's youth activity program. President Harley Baker states that again the club is bringing top acts to the Memorial auditorium stage and that the show is "big time" from beginning to end.

EVENT SET OCTOBER 22

PORTERVILLE — A full day's program at the Porterville Fair grounds is set for Saturday, October 22, when the California Junior Hereford association holds its annual field day in Porterville. Members of the association, as well as cattlemen from throughout California, will attend.

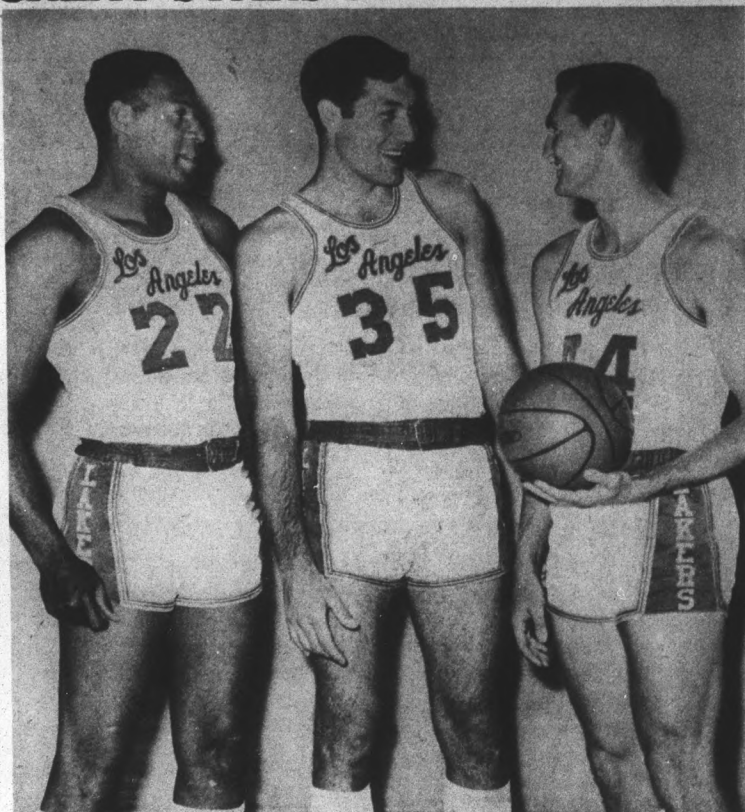

The educational-type program will include a Hereford judging contest; instruction on selecting modern Herefords, and show prospects; a weight-guessing contest; instruction on grooming and showing of champions; and talks on various aspects of the Hereford industry.

President of the Junior association, Carson Estes, of Burney, will preside at a business meeting of association directors that will include election of new officers. "Miss California Hereford Queen" will be crowned during the day.

A noon lunch will be hosted by the Acehi Hereford ranch and the Porterville chamber of commerce; official welcome to the city will be extended by Mayor Aubrey M. Lumley; greetings from the American National Cattlemen's association will be given by the association.

GREAT STARS PLAY SATURDAY

THESE GREAT stars of the Los Angeles Lakers — from left, Elgin Baylor, Rudy La Russo, and Jerry West — will be seen in action Saturday night in the Porterville high school gymnasium when the Lakers play Bill Sharman's San Francisco Warriors in an exhibition benefit for the Porterville College Athletic fund. The game is set for 8 p.m.; tickets are on sale at Bough Hardware, Crocker-Citizen National bank, and Porterville College Book store. The Lakers will have no monopoly on stars in Saturday night's game, since Sharman will be bringing a few of his own, for instance, Rick Barry, Tom Meschery, Nate Thurmond, Walter Dukes, and Clyde Lee; and both the Lakers and Warriors will have several young former college stars who will be shooting for big time contracts. With Sharman appearing in his home town, you can bet he'll be gunning his Warriors for a win — and Fred Shauss, Laker coach, would rather beat the Warriors any time, any place, than anybody.

Editorial Comment

WE REGRET TO REPORT . . .

We regret to report that the Tulare County Grand jury has, in our opinion, lost respect and dignity by two ill-advised moves.

We say that we regret to report, for this is exactly our feeling. A grand jury is one of the foundations of our American judicial system; when any grand jury comes up with irresponsible action, then the entire system of justice, in a way, suffers.

Specifically, we refer to the Tulare county grand jury decision to fire out detailed questionnaires to "over 1,000 property owners claiming veterans' exemptions on their property taxes."

According to a grand jury press release, "Where discrepancies are found, property owners claiming exceptions will be requested to appear before the grand jury and verify his claims. In the event there is evidence of falsification, the grand jury, if it deems it necessary, will subpoena records covering the property owner's assets."

We have no quarrel with the grand jury checking veterans' exemption claims, but the shotgun approach is regrettable indeed. Members of the grand jury might better have gone to the office of the county assessor, inspected veteran tax exemption claims, summoned specific individuals if there was evidence of falsification, then taken necessary action in specific cases.

The shotgun method comes very close to harassment. There should be no place for this sort of thing in grand jury procedure.

Now, the second specific.

A few weeks ago the Tulare County Grand jury issued a report on operations of the Tulare County Road camps in which serious charges were listed against Camp Superintendent Sherman Crowder.

Later, the Tulare county board of supervisors, under whose direct jurisdiction the road camps operated, issued a report on the grand jury report stating, in general, that there was really nothing wrong at the road camps, and that Mr. Crowder had done nothing really wrong, then immediately dumped administration of the road camps to the Department of Rehabilitation, headed by Merlin Winters.

The grand jury came back with its report on the supervisors' report in which it stated that grand jury members did not agree with the supervisors, then, in effect, said that since the administration of the road camps had been changed, everything is now wonderful and beautiful.

But what about Mr. Crowder?

The first grand jury report and the board of supervisors' report cannot both be true.

In so far as we are concerned, the grand jury is still on the hook to substantiate its statements against Mr. Crowder, or admit it was wrong — an untenable and unfortunate situation for a grand jury to be in.

So we regret to report that the Tulare county grand jury has lost respect and dignity in our book.

With these indications of inefficient muddling, perhaps someone should investigate the grand jury.

Dr. Max Rafferty Lists Points For Positive Republican Approach

By David Richardson

TULARE — Speaking at a $25 dollar-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner in Tulare last Friday night, Dr. Max Rafferty, State Superintendent of Public Instruction proclaimed his partisan affiliation with the vigor and candor that has made him one of the most controversial men in California politics.

Dr. Rafferty, who holds a non-partisan office, has never left any doubt about his Republicanism. This has brought much consternation to Democrats who feel that the nature of his office demands silence in political campaigns.

Dr. Rafferty is far from silent. He has endorsed Republicans in past elections, and endorses Republican Ronald Reagan in this year's gubernatorial election. Whether or not the State superintendent should stay out of partisan politics was a matter that hardly concerned Dr. Rafferty's Tulare audience; they were more than willing to listen to his plea for a more constructive Republican party.

Outlining a five-point plan for a more positive, and thus more effective party, Dr. Rafferty urged his fellow Republicans to "stop sniveling and start suggesting".

The first suggestion Dr. Rafferty gave was for "telling the truth". Attacking the Johnson "credibility gap", he noted that it was not the Republicans who have kept the United States misinformed on the war in Viet Nam, nor was it the Republicans who have attempted to play down our presence in Thailand and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Dr. Rafferty suggested the Republicans stand for "helping the victims of crime", rather than "coddling the criminal".

He called for judges who are authorities on the law and not sociologists; clearly written laws to help law enforcement officers define crimes; an accurate definition of pornography; and the "separation" of "murderous psychopaths from society", once they are known to be such.

Dr. Rafferty urged Republicans to be for "returning to punishment" in judicial procedures. Obeying the law must be made desirable, he stressed, with fair, prompt punishment given to the convicted.

The strongest "for" suggested by Dr. Rafferty was for ending the war in Viet Nam by winning it. Peace conferences, attempts to stabilize the South Vietnamese government and the United Nations provide no answers to the problem he said. The only alternatives to total victory are stalemate and defeat for the United States. With the ability to "wipe out the wasp nest in one blow", argued Dr. Rafferty, America must take all opportunities to assure victory.

Dr. Rafferty went on to suggest Republicans help end racial turmoil and unrest by showing that the party "cares deeply" for every individual in the nation. This can be done he said by ensuring that every citizen is registered to vote, ending barriers to the ballot box, educating every individual to the limit of his ability, and broadening the area of Republican voter appeal.

He asked that party members set examples for hiring minority race members as individuals, listening to their suggestions, and asking their help.

The last point given by Rafferty concerned local self-government. Calling big federal government a "Frankenstein Monster", he told Republicans they must strengthen local government if it is to last in this nation.

Dr. Rafferty's effect upon the audience was quick and direct. While holding to basic conservative Republican tenants, his wit and forensic ability give those tenants a freshness that is thoroughly pleasant to the Republican ear.

DISPUTE OVER STATISTICS DOES NOT SOLVE PROBLEM OF CRIME IN STREETS

By CLEM WHITAKER, JR.

Crime on the streets is becoming an ever more explosive political issue in California and throughout the nation.

Political sensitivity on the subject has increased in almost direct ratio to public concern.

It is at this point, politically, that a considerable argument is being waged throughout the country on whether there is actually a crime wave or not.

Some of the arguments that the crime wave, so-called, is simply a figment of the imagination run this way:

A New York Times writer says "... there has always

We Only Heard

FARM TRIBUNE award of merit for the worst pun of the year — or perhaps of the century — goes to Jack Lucey, whose business sign now reads: "Firestone. Best Deal In Town. We Skid You Not." ... The award will be presented at the Mountain Lion saloon, with Jack buying, of course.

WE MENTION again that there's nothing doing in the Porterville area. Nothing, that is, except the Kiwanis Kapers, professional basketball, Homecoming queen finalists selection pointing toward the annual Homecoming celebration, Junior Hereford association field day, bird dog field trials, Sports men's association turkey shoot, assorted weekend football featuring the Panthers and the Pirates, Guadalupe Mission dinner dance, any number of club meetings and social events, Harvest Festival at Poplar, County Cattlemen's banquet at Terra Bella, election campaigning, and, just around the corner, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Anyone for volunteering to work on a committee? Take your pick. The field is wide open, even if there are still those who yak about nothing to do in Porterville.

SO NOW certain of the egghead big brass who clutter up the learned American Bar association, are bleating about protecting an individual's right to fair trial through curtailment of news media releases by attorneys and law enforcement agencies in pending criminal cases ... While we most certainly cannot condone the highly sensationalized news coverage in some trials, and following some arrests, we submit that a greater evil in so far as individual rights are concerned is suppression of news rather than the abuse of news privileges by a few news media ... We can imagine that certain attorneys — and judges — would like nothing better than to work behind closed doors, never having to face the consequence of free press coverage by digging, competitive reporters, for without the news media looking down their throats — and we mean just that, looking down their throats — law officers and judges would be accountable to the people only in so far as they personally saw fit to account themselves. Any move to curtail a news man from any news media in his digging for and publishing news is a step away, not toward, the assurance of an individual to a fair trial, for one step leads to another, until the final step is taken, and the door of the police office and the courtroom is completely closed, and a dictatorial situation becomes a reality in which men who are responsible for legal justice in a free society dispense that justice without public accountability. ... We suggest that news media demand honest, factual news reporting from their personnel in criminal cases ... And we suggest that the American Bar association take a look at those in its own house who will defend anyone on any charge if the fee is paid, without regard for the rights of an individual, or the rights of we, the public.

We heard recently that ninety five percent of what is written is unnecessary. We agree with this completely and are tempted to leave the rest of this column blank. We suspect that only the editor would notice the omission and if any one else did they would probably feel the same way that we do.

After all you know it's fall planting time without being told and you're also aware that the days are shorter, the nights are longer, and the leaves are coming off the trees. The only thing that keeps us writing is that you may not know that we sell fall flowers, Dutch bulbs, and leaf rakes.

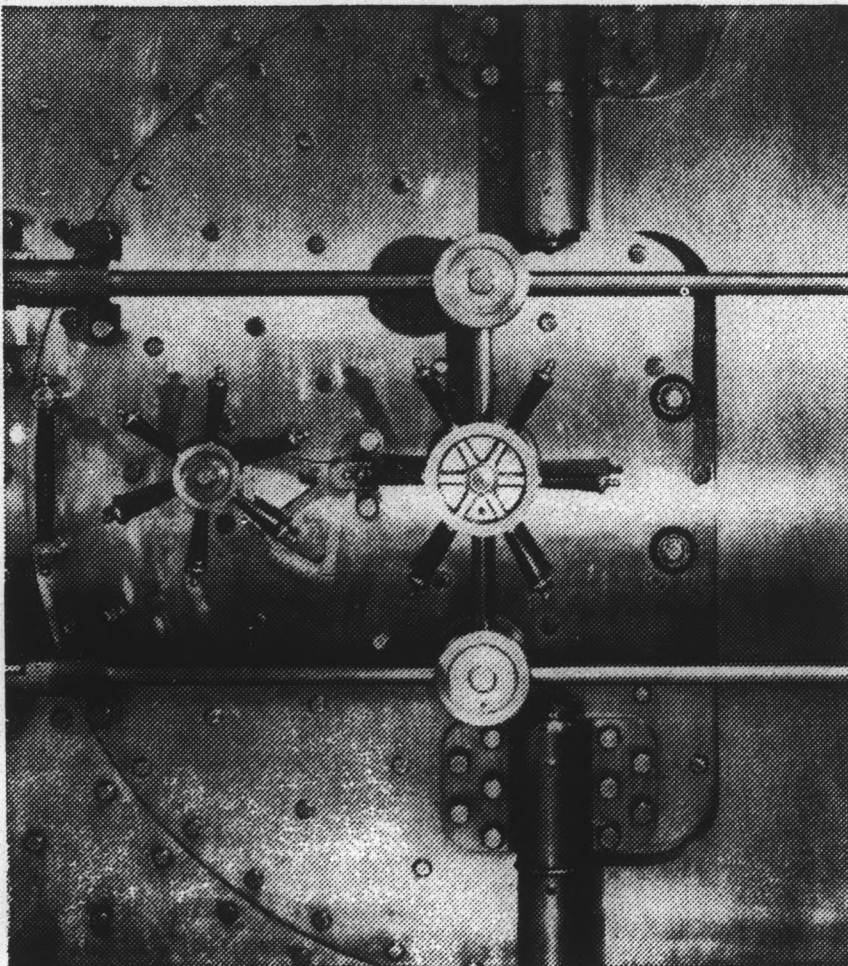

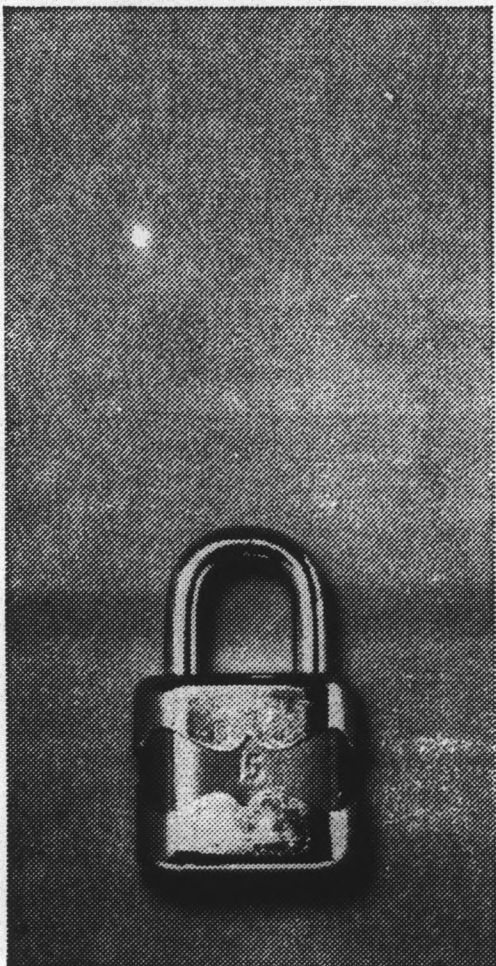

Not knowing this you might be tempted to acquire your needs from your corner pharmacist who really has better things to do than peddle imported Japanese leaf rakes. Especially as most of these rakes require the addition of a few pieces of baling wire to make them usable and only a professional nurseryman can provide this touch.

We welcome you to come on over and browse around, in which case you can ignore one hundred percent of what we write. Your only problem then will be avoiding ninety five percent of what we say. An art our wives learned years ago.

How much safety do you want for your money?

Financial safety comes in all shapes and sizes. There are safe investments and risky investments—and ones that are in between. Depending upon how much risk you want to take, your money can be invested in a variety of ways.

Your savings, however, are another thing. This is money you do not want to risk—no matter how safe the investment appears. This is money you want to be able to count on at all times and under all conditions. And when you want your money that safe and that available—you want it in the bank.

NEW SHOPPING AREA DEVELOPING ON WEST OLIVE AVENUE

Grand Opening of Sharman Plaza, and the new Bough Hardware in the Plaza, marks another step in development of West Olive Avenue as a shopping and entertainment thoroughfare.

A variety of business services are available in Sharman Plaza now — a barber shop, a beauty salon, real estate offices, loan service, and a water company office.

Additional services can be expected in the near future as available space in the Plaza is now being negotiated for.

Just across Olive avenue is the new and beautiful Town and Country Market, opened last week by Owner Teddy Wong, and due for a big, official Grand Opening soon.

And in the room, night club, liquor store — and more.

There has been a lot of activity — Sharman Plaza buildings have been built.

With the new activity — Sharman Plaza buildings have been built.

Avenue has already been built.

This means more people of southern California.

been a crime wave and the apparent recent statistical increases ignore many important considerations — including, most conspicuously, the vast postwar expansion of the age group (15-24) most prone to crime."

In the same vein, a University of Michigan professor states that "there are so many factors which account for an increase in crime statistics, that all one can really talk about is a crime reporting wave, not a crime wave."

Over at Columbia University an expert says "a sober look at the problem shows that there is probably less crime today in the United States than existed a hundred, or fifty, or even twenty-five years ago, and that today the United States is a more lawful and safer country than popular opinion imagines."

Inherent in the argument that there isn't really a crime wave is the contention that the FBI statistics are for the birds.

The 1965 FBI crime report says: "According to figures released by the United States

Bureau of the Census, total United States population increased 1.3 per cent in 1965. In that year the national crime index rate was 1,435 offenses per 100,000 of population, representing a 5 per cent increase over 1964.

While there are obvious differences in the FBI and local police methods of maintaining crime statistics, an analysis of FBI methods makes clear that it maintains a solid reporting system capable of reflecting crime increase or decrease. Far more important to the people of the country than the dispute over statistics—and the reason for the severe political sensitivity to the crime problem—is the fact that too many people in too many places don't feel safe for the reason that crime is not only a statistical matter but a day by day occurrence that all can see. Public concern is with
